

Local Matters.

Frida Morning, September 29, 1859.
Col. C. C. Green, the efficient agent of the Postoffice Department, is in town.

There will be religious services at the Methodist Church this evening at half past six o'clock.

Kosciusko's Court.—There were no inquiries before the recorder yesterday, three of whom were sent to the chain-gang.

Sudden Death.—We regret to learn that Mr. Mathew D. Ball died suddenly of appendicitis in this city Wednesday evening.

We are indebted to Mr. J. C. Kirby, of the lower wharf, for late St. Louis and Cincinnati papers.

Prairie Passenger.—John W. McKinney, a young man who writes under the pseudonym of "W. W. Lewis," was a wife whippet we gave yesterday morning, was paid $20 by the steamer passengers.

Memphis Medical College.—The winter course of lectures in this institution will commence on the first day of November, Prof. O. R. Kirby, head of the Faculty.

The funds of the Building and Loan Association are due and payable to-morrow, and will be sent to the usual place to-night. See advertisement in a former column.

A young man of good character and willingness, without a shadow as gardener, mechanician, or any honest labor. Apply at the Navy Yard, Memphis.

Soldier's Return.—A party of seven slaves on their way South, passed through this city yesterday. They were the property of Col. A. G. Clark, of Clarksville, and Mr. E. McLean, of St. Louis.

Douglas' Oath.—John Burroughs was charged before the recorder yesterday not only with being a hypocrite, but also to have been a slaveholder.

The Ark or Pianos.—Go and see the new style of pictures taken at the Star Galaxy, No. 2 Main street. They are most perfect works of art. The Gallery is fully crowded. Prices from fifty cents upward.

Dowdell.—A black deck-hand, whose name is unknown, is understood, is now to leave from his master in Exeter Hall and Room. We presume he has been eminently successful in his efforts to secure his freedom, and to escape his master's clutches.

State Fair.—A party of seven slaves, bound for their old homes, passed through this city yesterday. They were the property of Col. A. G. Clark, of Clarksville, and Mr. E. McLean, of St. Louis.

Death.—John Burroughs was charged before the recorder yesterday not only with being a hypocrite, but also to have been a slaveholder.

This is not a time for Democrats to discuss their principles, nor for us to make long speeches upon which may never have a practical bearing. It would be most ungracious for us to do so.

Irreconcileable Conflict.—An example of the irreconcileable conflict, as exemplified in the recent events of 1860 there was nothing similar to it ever seen through the borders of our country.

It indicates distinctly that in the irreconcileable conflict there is no yesterday, no to-day, and no to-morrow.

It will be animated by the sentiments of a majority of the people, and the Constitution could doubtless be held in their hands if it was not for the influence of the Southern states.

Democracy would deserve to be forced out of the Union, and the Constitution would be safe.

The Mississippi arrived from New Orleans yesterday, having made her passage in less than 10 days, and will be in Memphis Saturday evening.

The Ark or Pianos.—Go and see the new style of pictures taken at the Star Galaxy, No. 2 Main street. They are most perfect works of art. The Gallery is fully crowded. Prices from fifty cents upward.

Dowdell.—A black deck-hand, whose name is unknown, is understood, is now to leave from his master in Exeter Hall and Room.

We presume he has been eminently successful in his efforts to secure his freedom, and to escape his master's clutches.

State Fair.—A party of seven slaves, bound for their old homes, passed through this city yesterday. They were the property of Col. A. G. Clark, of Clarksville, and Mr. E. McLean, of St. Louis.

Death.—John Burroughs was charged before the recorder yesterday not only with being a hypocrite, but also to have been a slaveholder.

This is not a time for Democrats to discuss their principles, nor for us to make long speeches upon which may never have a practical bearing. It would be most ungracious for us to do so.

Irreconcileable Conflict.—An example of the irreconcileable conflict, as exemplified in the recent events of 1860 there was nothing similar to it ever seen through the borders of our country.

It indicates distinctly that in the irreconcileable conflict there is no yesterday, no to-day, and no to-morrow.

It will be animated by the sentiments of a majority of the people, and the Constitution could doubtless be held in their hands if it was not for the influence of the Southern states.

Democracy would deserve to be forced out of the Union, and the Constitution would be safe.

The Mississippi arrived from New Orleans yesterday, having made her passage in less than 10 days, and will be in Memphis Saturday evening.

The Ark or Pianos.—Go and see the new style of pictures taken at the Star Galaxy, No. 2 Main street. They are most perfect works of art. The Gallery is fully crowded. Prices from fifty cents upward.

Dowdell.—A black deck-hand, whose name is unknown, is understood, is now to leave from his master in Exeter Hall and Room.

We presume he has been eminently successful in his efforts to secure his freedom, and to escape his master's clutches.

State Fair.—A party of seven slaves, bound for their old homes, passed through this city yesterday. They were the property of Col. A. G. Clark, of Clarksville, and Mr. E. McLean, of St. Louis.

Death.—John Burroughs was charged before the recorder yesterday not only with being a hypocrite, but also to have been a slaveholder.

This is not a time for Democrats to discuss their principles, nor for us to make long speeches upon which may never have a practical bearing. It would be most ungracious for us to do so.

Irreconcileable Conflict.—An example of the irreconcileable conflict, as exemplified in the recent events of 1860 there was nothing similar to it ever seen through the borders of our country.

It indicates distinctly that in the irreconcileable conflict there is no yesterday, no to-day, and no to-morrow.

It will be animated by the sentiments of a majority of the people, and the Constitution could doubtless be held in their hands if it was not for the influence of the Southern states.

Democracy would deserve to be forced out of the Union, and the Constitution would be safe.

The Mississippi arrived from New Orleans yesterday, having made her passage in less than 10 days, and will be in Memphis Saturday evening.

The Ark or Pianos.—Go and see the new style of pictures taken at the Star Galaxy, No. 2 Main street. They are most perfect works of art. The Gallery is fully crowded. Prices from fifty cents upward.

Dowdell.—A black deck-hand, whose name is unknown, is understood, is now to leave from his master in Exeter Hall and Room.

We presume he has been eminently successful in his efforts to secure his freedom, and to escape his master's clutches.

State Fair.—A party of seven slaves, bound for their old homes, passed through this city yesterday. They were the property of Col. A. G. Clark, of Clarksville, and Mr. E. McLean, of St. Louis.

Death.—John Burroughs was charged before the recorder yesterday not only with being a hypocrite, but also to have been a slaveholder.

This is not a time for Democrats to discuss their principles, nor for us to make long speeches upon which may never have a practical bearing. It would be most ungracious for us to do so.

Irreconcileable Conflict.—An example of the irreconcileable conflict, as exemplified in the recent events of 1860 there was nothing similar to it ever seen through the borders of our country.

It indicates distinctly that in the irreconcileable conflict there is no yesterday, no to-day, and no to-morrow.

It will be animated by the sentiments of a majority of the people, and the Constitution could doubtless be held in their hands if it was not for the influence of the Southern states.

Democracy would deserve to be forced out of the Union, and the Constitution would be safe.

The Mississippi arrived from New Orleans yesterday, having made her passage in less than 10 days, and will be in Memphis Saturday evening.

The Ark or Pianos.—Go and see the new style of pictures taken at the Star Galaxy, No. 2 Main street. They are most perfect works of art. The Gallery is fully crowded. Prices from fifty cents upward.

Dowdell.—A black deck-hand, whose name is unknown, is understood, is now to leave from his master in Exeter Hall and Room.

We presume he has been eminently successful in his efforts to secure his freedom, and to escape his master's clutches.

State Fair.—A party of seven slaves, bound for their old homes, passed through this city yesterday. They were the property of Col. A. G. Clark, of Clarksville, and Mr. E. McLean, of St. Louis.

Death.—John Burroughs was charged before the recorder yesterday not only with being a hypocrite, but also to have been a slaveholder.

This is not a time for Democrats to discuss their principles, nor for us to make long speeches upon which may never have a practical bearing. It would be most ungracious for us to do so.

Irreconcileable Conflict.—An example of the irreconcileable conflict, as exemplified in the recent events of 1860 there was nothing similar to it ever seen through the borders of our country.

It indicates distinctly that in the irreconcileable conflict there is no yesterday, no to-day, and no to-morrow.

It will be animated by the sentiments of a majority of the people, and the Constitution could doubtless be held in their hands if it was not for the influence of the Southern states.

Democracy would deserve to be forced out of the Union, and the Constitution would be safe.

The Mississippi arrived from New Orleans yesterday, having made her passage in less than 10 days, and will be in Memphis Saturday evening.

The Ark or Pianos.—Go and see the new style of pictures taken at the Star Galaxy, No. 2 Main street. They are most perfect works of art. The Gallery is fully crowded. Prices from fifty cents upward.

Dowdell.—A black deck-hand, whose name is unknown, is understood, is now to leave from his master in Exeter Hall and Room.

We presume he has been eminently successful in his efforts to secure his freedom, and to escape his master's clutches.

State Fair.—A party of seven slaves, bound for their old homes, passed through this city yesterday. They were the property of Col. A. G. Clark, of Clarksville, and Mr. E. McLean, of St. Louis.

Death.—John Burroughs was charged before the recorder yesterday not only with being a hypocrite, but also to have been a slaveholder.

This is not a time for Democrats to discuss their principles, nor for us to make long speeches upon which may never have a practical bearing. It would be most ungracious for us to do so.

Irreconcileable Conflict.—An example of the irreconcileable conflict, as exemplified in the recent events of 1860 there was nothing similar to it ever seen through the borders of our country.

It indicates distinctly that in the irreconcileable conflict there is no yesterday, no to-day, and no to-morrow.

It will be animated by the sentiments of a majority of the people, and the Constitution could doubtless be held in their hands if it was not for the influence of the Southern states.

Democracy would deserve to be forced out of the Union, and the Constitution would be safe.

The Mississippi arrived from New Orleans yesterday, having made her passage in less than 10 days, and will be in Memphis Saturday evening.

The Ark or Pianos.—Go and see the new style of pictures taken at the Star Galaxy, No. 2 Main street. They are most perfect works of art. The Gallery is fully crowded. Prices from fifty cents upward.

Dowdell.—A black deck-hand, whose name is unknown, is understood, is now to leave from his master in Exeter Hall and Room.

We presume he has been eminently successful in his efforts to secure his freedom, and to escape his master's clutches.

State Fair.—A party of seven slaves, bound for their old homes, passed through this city yesterday. They were the property of Col. A. G. Clark, of Clarksville, and Mr. E. McLean, of St. Louis.

Death.—John Burroughs was charged before the recorder yesterday not only with being a hypocrite, but also to have been a slaveholder.

This is not a time for Democrats to discuss their principles, nor for us to make long speeches upon which may never have a practical bearing. It would be most ungracious for us to do so.

Irreconcileable Conflict.—An example of the irreconcileable conflict, as exemplified in the recent events of 1860 there was nothing similar to it ever seen through the borders of our country.

It indicates distinctly that in the irreconcileable conflict there is no yesterday, no to-day, and no to-morrow.

It will be animated by the sentiments of a majority of the people, and the Constitution could doubtless be held in their hands if it was not for the influence of the Southern states.

Democracy would deserve to be forced out of the Union, and the Constitution would be safe.

The Mississippi arrived from New Orleans yesterday, having made her passage in less than 10 days, and will be in Memphis Saturday evening.

The Ark or Pianos.—Go and see the new style of pictures taken at the Star Galaxy, No. 2 Main street. They are most perfect works of art. The Gallery is fully crowded. Prices from fifty cents upward.

Dowdell.—A black deck-hand, whose name is unknown, is understood, is now to leave from his master in Exeter Hall and Room.

We presume he has been eminently successful in his efforts to secure his freedom, and to escape his master's clutches.

State Fair.—A party of seven slaves, bound for their old homes, passed through this city yesterday. They were the property of Col. A. G. Clark, of Clarksville, and Mr. E. McLean, of St. Louis.

Death.—John Burroughs was charged before the recorder yesterday not only with being a hypocrite, but also to have been a slaveholder.

This is not a time for Democrats to discuss their principles, nor for us to make long speeches upon which may never have a practical bearing. It would be most ungracious for us to do so.

Irreconcileable Conflict.—An example of the irreconcileable conflict, as exemplified in the recent events of 1860 there was nothing similar to it ever seen through the borders of our country.

It indicates distinctly that in the irreconcileable conflict there is no yesterday, no to-day, and no to-morrow.

It will be animated by the sentiments of a majority of the people, and the Constitution could doubtless be held in their hands if it was not for the influence of the Southern states.

Democracy would deserve to be forced out of the Union, and the Constitution would be safe.

The Mississippi arrived from New Orleans yesterday, having made her passage in less than 10 days, and will be in Memphis Saturday evening.

The Ark or Pianos.—Go and see the new style of pictures taken at the Star Galaxy, No. 2 Main street. They are most perfect works of art. The Gallery is fully crowded. Prices from fifty cents upward.

Dowdell.—A black deck-hand, whose name is unknown, is understood, is now to leave from his master in Exeter Hall and Room.

We presume he has been eminently successful in his efforts to secure his freedom, and to escape his master's clutches.

State Fair.—A party of seven slaves, bound for their old homes, passed through this city yesterday. They were the property of Col. A. G. Clark, of Clarksville, and Mr. E. McLean, of St. Louis.

Death.—John Burroughs was charged before the recorder yesterday not only with being a hypocrite, but also to have been a slaveholder.

This is not a time for Democrats to discuss their principles, nor for us to make long speeches upon which may never have a practical bearing. It would be most ungracious for us to do so.

Irreconcileable Conflict.—An example of the irreconcileable conflict, as exemplified in the recent events of 1860 there was nothing similar to it ever seen through the borders of our country.

It indicates distinctly that in the irreconcileable conflict there is no yesterday, no to-day, and no to-morrow.

It will be animated by the sentiments of a majority of the people, and the Constitution could doubtless be held in their hands if it was not for the influence of the Southern states.

Democracy would deserve to be forced out of the Union, and the Constitution would be safe.

The Mississippi arrived from New Orleans yesterday, having made her passage in less than 10 days, and will be in Memphis Saturday evening.

The Ark or Pianos.—Go and see the new style of pictures taken at the Star Galaxy, No. 2 Main street. They are most perfect works of art. The Gallery is fully crowded. Prices from fifty cents upward.

Dowdell.—A black deck-hand, whose name is unknown, is understood, is now to leave from his master in Exeter Hall and Room.

We presume he has been eminently successful in his efforts to secure